2 Planning Commission Appointments Squeak Through On 3-2 Vote

By a three to two vote last night, after a fight, the city council approved Mayor John Chitwood's appointment of Mrs. Julian von Meier and J. B. Martin, Jr. to the two vacancies on the planning commission.

As usual, it was essentially a row between Gunnar Norberg and Mayor Chitwood, and as usual the rest of the council members, the city clerk, and the audience eagerly joined in.

As usual, Norberg was as diverted as the rest of the house when Chitwood reached the fuming point and delivered the big squelch:

"I don't think I'll ever agree with you as long as you're on the city council. You're a regular Jack Paar."

Norberg and Chitwood are the two holdover councilmen. They have two more years for combat.

As soon as Chitwood proposed his appointees, Norberg counterproposed: "Since these are four-year appointments, the approval should be left to the new council." (which will take office in two weeks)

Allen Knight backed him up.

Chitwood accused Norberg of playing a delaying action so he could get appointees on the planning commission who would do what he wanted.

To Norberg's complaint that he'd never heard of Martin "until 4:00 o'clock this afternoon," Chitwood said he'd called at Norberg's office weeks ago with a list of possible appointees and Martin's name was on it.

Jim Buffington said he'd known Martin for years. "He's a nice guy and I've had lots of talks with him."

Norberg pointed out that Martin is a builder and he doesn't approve of practicing architects and builders on the planning commission; their own jobs come before their own planning commission for approval. Retired architects and builders are all right.

Frank Putnam, a candidate for city council, sitting with a flock of other council candidates, came forward to testify. He'd been chairman of the planning commission two years ago, and he'd found that architects and builders on the planning commission are invaluable.

Other audience participation: Mrs. Jeannie Klenke thought the council should postpone appointments until the new council was seated. City Clerk Lawrence Rose said it was dangerous not to fill the vacancies which have been unfilled since February. Five are needed on board of adjustment matters and five are all there are now. Bob Spencer urged immediate approval. Any commissioners chosen by this council would be conscientious, superior citizens, he said. Patricia Hall, a council candidate, said that since these vacancies had existed since February, it

CARMEL LITTLE LEAGUE TRYOUTS SATURDAY

The Carmel Little League will hold its final tryouts this Saturday morning from 9:00 to 12:00 o'clock at the Carmel High baseball field.

All boys, 8 through 12 who have attended the first two tryouts are urged to attend.

TUESDAY IS ELECTION DAY

Carmel voters on Tuesday will elect three city councilmen from nine candidates; a city treasurer from two candidates; an unopposed city clerk.

Polls in all four precincts will be open from 7:00 o'clock in the morning until 7:00 in the evening.

Any voter uncertain about where to vote may telephone City Hall, MA 4-2781, for information.

BY JOHN UPTON

"I think the best advice for would-be writers was offered many years ago by Irving Cobb: 'Just keep on making little black marks on white paper.' "

This is the opinion of Carmel author Miriam Clark Potter, who should know. She has published 26 books and more short stories and poems than she can remember. Her most recent work in the juvenile field, Goodness, Mrs. Goose was brought out this month by J.B. Lippincott Company, and a volume of stories for the four-to-seven age group is scheduled for the spring of 1961.

Mrs. Potter is amused by those who say, "I've always wanted to write, but I could never find the time." With her husband, the late Zenas Potter, she has lived and worked in New York, Chicago, Washington, D.C.; Syracuse, New York; Dayton, Ohio; and New Delhi, India; and has traveled through every state in the Union, Canada, Mexico, and Europe. She has three daughters and seven grandchildren. And yet she has been writing steadily since the age of four, when The Minneapolis Journal published three of her poems.

Her first sales were to The Youth's Companion and St. Nicholas magazines when she was still in high school. In the 20's Mrs. Potter wrote a daily children's feature for the New York Evening Post, which was syndicated in thirty newspapers. Her first three books were based on these columns.

During the second World War, while Mr. Potter was Director of Congressional Information for the OPA in Washington, she was turning out three regular magazine features. Probably the best known of these were The Littlebit Family

The Pine Cone Recommends City Candidates

City Treasurer: Incumbent Sam Coleman, because of his proven competence.

City Council: Strum, Whitaker, Whittlesey.

Robert Strum because of his ability to see that there is more to Carmel than the business district, his appreciation of the true values of the community, and because of the confidence the Klenke Committee, "old Carmel," has that he will give them the representation that is their right on the city council.

Francis Whitaker served on the city council from 1952 to 1958. When the planning commission's radical new zoning ordinance comes before the city council, nobody will have to spell out for him the difference between a use permit and a non-conforming use. He will not only know their technical meaning but their long-range effect. He appreciates the strengths of the old ordinance and is competent to recognize what is good in the new, and capable of salvaging the best of both. He is seriously needed on the city council at this time.

Former chairman of the Sierra Club conservation committee, chairman of the Lobos League, member of the Monterey County Open Space Committee, his struggles and victories to preserve the countryside, wild areas, forests and beaches are known to conservationists throughout the state. He will speed up the pine planting program, as he has been trying to do from his citizen's seat in the council chambers off and on for the past two years.

Eben Whittlesey, like Whitaker, is a long-time resident. He has a wide range of interests. He is past president of the Monterey County Symphony Association board of directors and is an active member and past president of the Carmel Lions Club. He raises roses and several years ago built an addition to his home in the Eighty Acres. For years he has attended city council meetings when important issues were at stake. The issues he has chosen to support, and what he has said on them have shown his knowledge and judgment.

An attorney, he would be a valuable member, since the first serious task the new council will undertake will be hearing and review of the planning commission's new zoning ordinance.

He has the quality that we have looked for first in the candidates we recommend in this election, the Carmel sense of values.

Alas, The State Won't Allow Carmel High To Further The Cold War

Old text books are not as easy to get rid of as they thought, Carmel school trustees found out last night.

The books in question are 415 English and foreign language texts, now gathering dust at Carmel High School. Some of them have not been used since 1949.

Superintendent Stuart Mitchell thought he had the answer when he decided to ask the board to authorize donation of the texts to the Navy for distribution in foreign schools in the Western Pacific area. This was in line with a recent Navy communication stating that such contributions "would further the objectives of the United States in the Cold War."

But a few hours before last night's regular board meeting, Mitchell realized he had overlooked something.

"Our faces are red," he told trustees, "and I'd like to table the whole thing. Last night I remembered that we're required by state law to use texts for at least four years. With the exception of one German reader, none of these was in use for longer than two years. I think we should refer the matter back to the teachers, to see if we can't use them for another two years."

Although the books have been superseded, they are not obsolete, he added.

Two board members objected strongly to Mitchell's suggestion.

"I would hate to think that a child of mine was using a text that was considered so inadequate that it had been out of use for eleven years," Dr. Richard Snyder demurred.

Dr. Grant Fletcher pointed out that texts are a small item in the total cost of education, and said that teachers should not be forced to work with books of which they disapprove.

This left the board with an apparently insoluble problem. The school district cannot legally dispose of the books until they have seen four years of service, yet no one seems willing to use

School Out Friday, Pool Open Through Holy Week Vacation

Schools in Carmel Unified District close for Easter vacation tomorrow afternoon and reopen on April 18. Carmel Adult School also will not be in session during this period. During vacation the high school pool will be open daily from 1:00-4:00 o'clock for recreational swimming.

Administrators will be variously occupied during Easter vacation.

Superintendent Stuart Mitchell and Mrs. Mitchell will visit relatives in Pasadena, then go to Disneyland to hear their older daughter, Barbara Small, play with the College of the Pacific Band. Following this they will drive to Reno, pick up their younger daughter, Sue, who attends the University of Nevada, and bring her to Carmel for Easter.

Assistant superintendent Wayne Greenfield will conduct a workshop for district custodians at Sunset School on Thursday and Friday. Films provided by custodial supply firms will be shown and recommended janitorial procedures discussed.

High School principal Warren Edwards will visit placement bureaus in search of required new faculty members on Friday, and them for the additional two years.

Superintendent Mitchell admitted that he didn't know the answer.

"We can't burn them, either, legally," he said wistfully.

The matter was tabled and referred back to the administration office for further scrutiny.

Trustees Fletcher and Snyder saw eye to eye on another issue last night—professional surveys.

Carmel's 69 classified (non-certificated) school employees asked the school board for a job survey and evaluation to assist the salary committee with its recommendations. Such a survey would give detailed job description for employees other than teachers and executives, aimed at a more equitable salary scale. The request was handed to the board in the form of a letter signed by Ed Goodrick, president of the Classified Employees Association.

The Association asked that the survey be made by an "outside person or agency."

This is now a legal requirement," Mitchell explained, "but the details are up to us." He said that the survey may be made by professionals or by the school district itself.

"It is designed to adjust salaries so that every employee may be treated fairly," assistant superintendent Wayne Greenfield told trustees." In some cases employees with greater responsibilities are getting the same salaries as those who have just been hired. There is a feeling among employees that there are inequities at the present time."

Dr. Fletcher said that he felt many of the more obvious inequities could be analyzed and remedied by the school board itself.

"In time there will probably be a need for a professional survey," he said. "But that time will come later when we have new schools and a new program. If we have it done now, we'll probably have to have it done over again in a couple of years. I think that if we can meet the requirements without a major outside survey, we can go on later to a survey that will really make sense."

He suggested that employees be asked to submit a list of job inequities and recommendations for adjustments, so that employees and administration might work together in eradicating injustices.

Dr. Snyder said that he was "not sure he understood" the need for an outside agency.

"There is no question but that a survey would make for a more systematic state of affairs, and that it would make comparisons easier among the districts," he conceded. "But there are some things here that we can do. Let's go as far as we can by ourselves."

George Yates, who did not attend last night's meeting, sent his views in a letter to the board. He spoke against the outside survey, and said that he believed the administrative staff could do the job.

Greenfield said that if the outside survey is not ordered, the central office staff of the school district will work with employees to draw up new salary schedules and classifications.

Dr. Snyder was appointed as the board's representative, to meet with employees to discuss the matter.

Trustees tried everything they could think of last night to keep the coming high school graduation exercises on the school grounds, but they came up with no workable solution for the problem of handling the 150 students who will take part in the ceremonies.

Carmel High School principal Warren Edwards told the board that since Sunset auditorium will be inadequate, the senior class had voted to hold the exercises in King Hall at the Navy School.

"As second choice, they suggested an outside ceremony here at the high school in the afternoon," he said. "But it would be just our luck to have a thick fog bank roll in."

Several trustees said they didn't like the look of having graduation exercises so far away from the Alma Mater, and racked their brains for a better suggestion. Dr. Snyder's was the only one.

"Could we rent a tent?" he asked hopefully.

The senior class was authorized to rent King Hall at a cost of approximately $200.00. This price will include fire watch, insurance, and parking guards, according to Navy schedule.

Reporting progress on the acquisition of an elementary school site near Carmel Valley Village, superintendent Mitchell told board members that a memorandum has been drawn up as basis for final agreement to take an option on ten acres at $2500 per acre. The seller, Arthur Metz, has agreed to accept $100 for a 30-day option, Mitchell said. Final payment will be a lump sum or in installments over a five or ten-year period, depending on the outcome of the bond issue in June. No interest rate has been agreed on.

The property is located on the north side of Carmel Valley road, a few hundred feet east of Valle Vista.

An entrance road is to be constructed from Carmel Valley road, Mitchell said, at a cost of about $6000. The seller has agreed to bear two-thirds of this cost, and the school district the remaining third.

Mrs. Potter Always Found Time For Her Writing Career

and Mrs. Goose. Both appeared later in book form.

"Queer, Dear Mrs. Goose" is a silly, lovable barnyard fowl with a great deal of imagination and spirit but little of what the world calls "practical sense."

"I'm afraid she is autobiographical," Mrs. Potter admits. "I think of some silly thing I might do, and there is my plot."

From 1931 until 1958, 180 Mrs. Goose stories appeared in American Childhood magazine, turned out at the rate of one a month. They are to be found in many anthologies, and have furnished material for eight books.

Illustrations for her books and magazine stories were done by her husband and herself. "Thinked by you, inked by me," he described them.

One of their illustrations was exhibited at the Graphic Arts Show in New York two years ago.

Two of Mrs. Potter's books have appeared in French and Swedish editions, and one—Little Rabbit's Bath—has been translated into, of all things, Turkish.

Certainly no one could have been surprised when young Miriam showed signs of a capacity for dealing with words. Her father was head of the Latin department at the University of Minnesota, her uncle head of the Department of Romance Languages, and her aunt professor of Latin at Smith College. She herself was Phi Beta Kappa when she was graduated from the University of Minnesota in 1909.

One of her early recollections is that of her father reading Dickens aloud to the family.

"I wonder if you'd be able to get a family together these days long enough to read to them?" she asks. Television, she feels, lays too great an emphasis on violence in its children's programs.

"Violence no longer shocks children as it should, "Mrs. Potter says. "They've seen too much of it."

One of her early favorites was The Swiss Family Robinson, a book she still admires.

"It stresses the unity of the family. I wonder why there are no 'family' books being written today?"

Other writers in her field whom she admires are Carolyn Sherwin Bailey, E. B. White, Kenneth Grahame, and Mary Norton, whose The Borrowers she considers to be one of the best series ever written for children.

Although she has been an established and successful author for forty years, Mrs. Potter remembers one sale as the most exciting of her life.

"It was a check for a poem published in the Youth's Companion," she recalls. "I carried it around with me until it was so dirty my father made me cash it. It was my first sale—for eight dollars."

Mr. and Mrs. Potter first came to Carmel in 1938, and three years later moved into the house they had built together on a hilltop overlooking Carmel Bay, where she still lives. Mr. Potter died in 1958, after a long and varied career in business and government. He was an established landscape painter, and had had shows in several American cities and in Europe.

Their daughter Jean (Mrs. Anatole Chelnov of New York City) is the author of two books on Alaska: Alaska Under Arms, and The Flying North. Her work has also appeared in The Saturday Evening Post, Reader's Digest, Coronet, and other magazines.

Another daughter, Margaret (Mrs. Philip Smith), lives in Carmel and is advertising director for a local department store. The third, Constance (Mrs. Alan Bruce), is a psychiatric social worker in Berkeley.

Vaughn Shoemaker Has One Man Show

Carmel cartoonist Vaughn Shoemaker, Pulitzer prize winner in 1938 and 1947, has a one-man show of 125 of his newspaper cartoons on display at the Monterey Library. Depicted in the cartoons are events from World War II to the present. Also included are cartoon-watercolor sketches which Mr. Shoemaker made of scenes in Europe during the war.

Mr. Shoemaker's work is nationally syndicated. He instructed at the Chicago Academy of Fine Arts before coming to live here. Two of his pupils were cartoonists Bill Mauldin and Dan Dowling, both now nationally syndicated. For seven years cartoonist Herblock worked with Mr. Shoemaker.

In addition to teaching, Mr. Shoemaker has been a newspaper cartoonist for 38 years, 27 of these as chief cartoonist of the Chicago Daily News.

Awards other than the two Pulitzer prizes which Mr. Shoemaker has won include Freedom Foundation gold medals each year since the award was first given in 1949, National Safety Council grand awards in 1946 and 1949, National Headliners award in 1945.

He is a member of the Carmel Arts Commission.

EARL BERNARD MURRAY LEADS S. F. SYMPHONY

Several members of the executive board of the Monterey County Symphony Association will attend the San Francisco Symphony concert on Saturday evening when guest conductor will be Earl Bernard Murray, conductor of the Monterey County Symphony.

Flying to San Francisco Saturday afternoon will be Eugene Harrah, first vice president of the Monterey County Symphony Association, and his younger daughter, Shirley. They will meet other local symphony supporters for dinner before the concert including, Mrs. Jan Wyman, assistant to Mr. Murray and an association vice president, Georgia Lyke, Monterey County Symphony librarian and board member, Frank Wright, association treasurer, and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Bell of Salinas.

Beethoven's Eroica Symphony will be the major work on the San Francisco Symphony program Earl Bernard Murray will conduct. He will present the Monterey County Symphony in its last Carmel concert this season on May 10 in Sunset Auditorium.

Council To Hold Meeting Monday To Buy White Lots

The Carmel City Council will hold an adjourned meeting at 5:00 o'clock Monday (day before election of a new city council) to complete the lease-purchase agreement of the property adjoining the city's Junipero Street corporation yard.

There will be an inspection tour at 4:30 to Fourth and Casanova concerning a driveway variance.

Mayor John Chitwood commended Fire Chief Robert Smith, at the council meeting last night, for receiving his certificate of completion of a University of Chicago correspondence course in fire administration.

The following ordinances were read for the second time and adopted: an amendment to the municipal code to require that all new commercial construction have underground utility service connections; an amendment providing for pre-audit payment of budgetted city bills; an amendment to provide maximum fine of $500 rather than $300 for conviction of misdemeanor; an amendment increasing bond of city treasurer to $100,000 and eliminating separate bonds of police chief and building inspector, now under blanket bond also eliminating office of tax and license collector, duties of which are now performed by the office of the city clerk; an ordinance setting salary of city clerk for 1960-64 at $600 per month; an ordinance which empowers the police chief to assign officer for special duty upon payment of $5.00 per hour, $3.13 for duty at Youth Center or Carmel schools.

Council approved signs for: Harold H. Bartlett's Treasurecraft Gifts and Music, Sixth between Dolores and Lincoln Streets; Les and Zyta Laky's The Laky Galleries, San Carlos between Fifth and Sixth; Freda S. Mayo's Shari's, Dolores between Ocean and Seventh.

The city clerk informed the council of the following transfers of business licenses: The Rankins, from Miles and Juliette Rankin to Harold H. Bartlett, new name to Treasurecraft Gifts and Music; Village Straw Shop, Lincoln between Ocean and Seventh, from John A. and Graeme Harrison to M. E. and Henrietta D. Campbell; Profils du Mode, Lincoln between Ocean and Seventh from Herbert H. and Antoinette T. Searles to Bergie and L. H. Sullivan, renamed Bergie's Fashions and Imports.

return to Carmel for the rest of the vacation.

Richard O'Connell, principal of River School, has allocated time during vacation to already arranged interviews with applicants for teaching positions in the Carmel district.

Orville Rogers, Sunset School principal, will visit Disneyland with Mrs. Rogers and their two daughters.

Woods and Carmelo Schools principal Richard Baron plans to attend the annual conference of elementary school administrators in Sacramento, Sunday through Wednesday.

William Mallek, Tularcitos School principal, has no special plans for Easter vacation.

Symphony To Play Monday Night For Music Educators

The Monterey County Symphony Orchestra will play a special program on Monday night for California Music Educators in conference on the Peninsula. The performance will take place in King Hall at the Naval Postgraduate School.

Conductor Earl Bernard Murray will conduct the orchestra in Bach's Suite No. 2 and Ive's The Unanswered Question. In addition, baritone Edgar Jones will repeat with the orchestra the two works which earned an ovation at the March Symphony concert, Songs of a Wayfarer, Mahler, and Don Quichotte a Dulcinee, Ravel.

All Sample Ballots Mailed On March 29 Says City Clerk

City Clerk Larry Rose has received complaints this week that some citizens have not received sample ballots for next Tuesday's city election.

The sample ballots were mailed by the city on March 29, he states. Yesterday the post office completed putting them in mail boxes. Everyone should have a sample ballot by tonight. If not, there are plenty of ballots at city hall.

Reasons for delay in receiving the ballots may be that citizens are not registered for Tuesday's election, mailing addresses have been changed since first registration or "they have just been missed," Mr. Rose states.

Foreign Language Workshop

A two-week workshop on teaching modern foreign languages in the elementary school will be held at Thomas O. Larkin School in Monterey from July 11 to July 22.

Planned for teachers, supervisors and administrators interested in introducing or improving programs in modern languages in the elementary school. No tuition fees will be charged.

Harry Edgecomb

Harry Porter Edgecomb, 91, died on Tuesday in a local hospital after a short illness. He came to Carmel four years ago from Butte County to live with his daughter, Mrs. Elva D. Edwards, Torres Street between Second and Third Avenues.

A drygoods merchant, Mr. Edgecomb retired in 1933 after owning and operating his own store. He was born in Lemington, Maine, on November 7, 1868.

In addition to his daughter in Carmel, he leaves a son, Fred Edgecomb of Pasadena.

Private funeral services were held yesterday in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea.

American Trust Company and Wells Fargo Bank have joined forces to better serve rapidly growing Northern California. As two banks, we have shared a heritage of history, an ideal of service that have made us natural partners since the feverish 1850's. To this common philosophy, we have added the combined skill of our well-trained staffs, the pooling of specialized experience, a substantial expansion of deposits and capital. On this sound foundation, our bank is in a strong position to meet the needs of all customers. As Wells Fargo Bank American Trust Company, we welcome the challenge of the years ahead.

Weisiger And Ware Great Success In H. S. Senior Play

by Mary Lindsay-Oliver

The 1960 Senior Class, Carmel High School, presented at Sunset Auditorium Friday and Saturday last a most creditable production of the comedy Our Hearts were Young and Gay by Jean Kerr. Its main scenes, enacted in a ship's cabin about to leave New York and on the way from New York to France concerns two 19-year-old passengers, Cornelia Otis Skinner and Emily Kimbrough who are eagerly looking forward to their first trip abroad. Cornelia plans to have acting instruction from Morsieur de la Croix, a noted French actor, though she is the daughter of a more famous American man of the theatre, Otis Skinner.

Mrs. Skinner insists on the two girls wearing canvas bags under their skirts for money and valuables. They promptly try to get rid of the bags and this is the cause of many ludicrous situations throughout the play. The two girls are paying for their own trip with money they saved, and their naive attitudes help create the farcical episodes that evolve such as when Cornelia developes measles just before landing, and Emily has thrown a chair to a man overboard and thinks she has killed him until she is thanked by an officer for helping to capture a stowaway. Housed in a second-rate hotel in Paris, the complications that follow their first night kept the large audience laughing.

The play calls for much ingenuity, and its dialogue is full of Shakespeare and other quotings by Cornelia applied with both wit and absurdity, and was quite appropriate for a teenage presentation. Mary Weisiger and Ciji Ware as the two main characters showed perception of dramatic values, while quite different in characters and attitudes. Mary has decided talent, and her facial expressions are unusually facile with emotional eruptions that convinced and convulsed the audience. Ciji Ware's more conservative part nevertheless gave her plenty of opportunity for spontaneity and comical surprises. Her timing was excellent. The steward, Peter de Petra; Mrs. Skinner, Ethel Prowell; Otis Skinner, Tom Green; the purser, Mike Bein; stewardess, Wendy Wiegman; Dick Winters, Toby Edson; the admiral, Joe Foster; Harriet St. John, Susan McKenzie; Winifred Blaugh, Jennie Hill; Leo McEvoy, Boz Williams; Morsieur de la Croix, Jim Woolfenden; the inspector, Kathy Aldrich; Therese, Veronica Taylor, Diane Miller; Madame Elise, Randi Randolph, and the window cleaner, Tim Mitchell, all fulfilled their parts with skill and aplomb. They were directed by Mrs. Charles Mohler to whom great credit is due, as well as to the assistant manager Linda Stager and the stage manager Bert Blanks, with an assistant staff of over forty. It was a good comedy which the young people acted with surprising aptitude, with the whole cast vigorously applauded on the stage at the end amid bouquets of flowers.

Small and large printing orders are quickly filled at The Pine Cone Press. Dial Carmel MA 4-3881.

Sally Campbell Chosen To Attend Girls State At Davis

Sally Campbell, a junior at Carmel High School, will go to California Girls State at the University of California at Davis June 20-28. She was selected to attend Girls State, sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary in California, by the high school faculty on the basis of leadership ability and high scholarship.

The selectees take part in the government of a mythical state, also run for office on city, county and state levels. An outstanding girl is chosen to go to Girls Nation in Washington, D.C.

Sally is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Campbell and granddaughter of the late Carmel city attorney Argyll Campbell.

Some years ago, at her invitation, President Eisenhower attended services at the Carmel Presbyterian Church. Sally, then a Sunset School student, wrote a letter to the President when she knew he was coming to the Peninsula and asked him to attend Sunday services. Her grandfather, the late Dr. Harry Clayton Rogers, was the first pastor of the Carmel Presbyterian Church.

Dorothy Briscoe

Miss Dorothy M. Briscoe died on April 1 in a San Jose hospital following a brain operation which disclosed she had received severe head injuries of an unknown origin. She was a landscape and portrait artist who came to live in Carmel several years ago. Her studio was on Carmel Point at Valley View and Seventeenth Ave.

Miss Briscoe liked to roam the rocky coastline along the Point in search of new vistas to paint. She received her art education in the East and became known in Eastern art circles as "a painter of beautiful women." Locally she exhibited in Carmel and Carmel Valley galleries.

Several years ago her original portrait of Lincoln as a young man received first prize in a contest sponsored by the Washington Post Times and was reproduced on the cover of a national magazine.

Surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Lewis Booker of Newcastle, Pennsylvania, and Mrs. Virginia Cullen of Rehoboth Beach, Delaware.

Funeral services were held in the East this week.

Carmelites Off To Europe

Carmel persons who plan to leave this month for Europe are Mrs. Lloyd Woodhull, Mrs. Andrew DelMonte, Mrs. Irving Ridenour, Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Fletcher and Mr. and Mrs. C. John Viking. Next month Miss Mae N. Lent will go abroad. Mr. and Mrs. H.J. Danelz have already left for Europe.

Portland 5, Oregon
April 1, 1960

My Dear Col. DeCamp:

I have just read your plea for reverence, in the Pine Cone, which my son-in-law brought home, last night, from Carmel and I feel as strongly as you do about it.

Our family has spent many months in Carmel after the holidays, for many years and loved it so much that we considered leaving our home in Portland, Oregon, when Dr. Sears retired, and settling in Carmel, where we have many friends.

I sincerely hope that most of the Carmelites will read your article and decide to keep the beauty and charm of their Carmel and not permit it to become commercialized as so many places have been ruined by so called progress. With a hope and prayer that enough Carmelites will feel as you do—

Sincerely yours,
Mrs. Charles Edwin Sears

Art On The Peninsula

The April show opened at the Carmel Art Association Galleries Wednesday with the last full exhibition for several months, since work on enlarging the gallery will begin at the end of this show. Display space will be reduced to the oil gallery and only part of the Beardsley room while remodelling is in progress.

Maxine Albro, chairman of the hanging committee for April, had as her assistants: Dick Lofton, Robert Davey, Sam Colburn, Virginia Conroy and Alvin Beller.

A group exhibition of oil paintings and a one-man show of watercolors by Alvin J. Beller opened April 1 at the Artists Guild of America, Monte Verde and Ocean Avenue.

Carmel painters of the 24 exhibitors in the group show are: Nell Walker Warner, William Ritschel, N. A., Patricia Cunningham, Beulah Kosty, Leo Braico, Iris Alberto, Florence Lockwood and Barbara West.

Alvin J. Beller studied at the Detroit Commercial Art School, was a pupil of Hugh Breckenridge at Gloucester, Massachusetts, and of Charles Hawthorne at Provincetown. He also painted and studied in Europe. Becoming interested in photography, he toured Mexico, the United States and Canada, taking color movies which were shown throughout the country. During the war he returned to painting, and has since exhibited in a number of California Galleries, including the Crocker Art Gallery in Sacramento.

A former Carmelite who has been living in Lomita, near Long Beach, he returned several months ago to occupy his Carmel home.

The Cooling Galleries (London) 92 New Bond Street, W.1 "are pleased to announce an exhibition, Cellars and Sunshine, recent paintings by Adrian Beach, A.R.C.A., R.S. 25th April to 7th May." Beach spent the early months of World War II in Carmel, painting, and exhibited in the Carmel Art Association Galleries.

He writes from his home at Woking, Surrey:

"Here comes the spring again in the gardens and the showers are giving way to sunshine and more bird music. So wonderful to find the plants appearing again, after so many funerals and the bleakness. I was in Portugal until Christmas at a very small village, along the northern coast; a charming place with fishermen and poor agricultural workers. The autumn storms were tremendous and there were many lives lost in the waves during the storms, yet the dignified, colorful life of the local people carried on with a rhythm that was strengthening. It was lucky to be able to run in and out to do my several paintings, and this bunch of work, which I hope reflects something of the simple life that most of us have lost, will soon be shown at the Cooling Gallery. As the exhibition covers the date of the Royal wedding, I hope that many will be able to come to my exhibition at the same time. Since I came home, I have been exploring some of the cellars below the surface of busy London and fascinating they are with their ancient brick arches and stores of treasures, and no doubt forgotten history, if walls could speak volumes.

"My memories of you all were most happily renewed in February when I spent a long weekend in the Cotswolds drawing some beautiful and charming Americans who are studying here for a while at Oxford and in London. It is so nice to have these links and so stimulating to all that can make these exchanges of ideas."

Yolande Porter of Pebble Beach won first prize after receiving the largest popular vote at the Friday afternoon show at the Craft Studios last week. She exhibited an oil still life. Dan Garcia of Carmel took second place with an oil street scene.

Preceding week's winners, all of Carmel, were: Peter Jenkins, oil landscape; Jane Hoffman, oil landscape; Barbara Teevan, special youth award for a charcoal drawing of a horse's head.

On March 18 Jolene Hedick, Monterey, got the largest vote and first place in the Craft Studios' weekly art show. He submitted a landscape in oils.

Jean Goddard of Monterey was second. She also showed an oil landscape. The special children's prize that week was awarded to John Walden Sampson of Carmel for a pencil drawing.

Employers Wanted For Students During Easter Vacation

The Student Employment Service announces there are 235 students seeking work during Easter vacation, April 8-18. These Peninsula high school and college students, 16 years old or over, have been tested and screened by the service for job suitability. They will do yard work, domestic work, clerking, dishwashing and waiting on table in restaurants. Interested employers may telephone the Student Employment Service representative at FR 5-4191. Baby sitting requests are not filled.

The Student Employment Service was started a year ago for Monterey students. It is now expanded to include all students attending high school or college on the Peninsula, also students who reside on the Peninsula but attend school elsewhere.

A group of 15 Peninsula residents, the Student Employment Service Committee, operates the non-profit employment service. Fletcher Dutton of Pebble Beach is chairman. Carmel members are Warren Edwards, Carmel High School principal, and Harold Davis, local banker. Lloyd Swanson is the Carmel Valley representative. The committee works in cooperation with the California State Employment Service.

In the past year 835 job orders for students have been filled. This includes part-time, after school and vacation work. All students seeking employment should register at the Student Employment Service office or telephone the number mentioned above.

During March the service had job openings for 41 students. Thirty-eight of these jobs were filled by 19 college students and 19 high school students. The Carmel area provided 16 of the March job openings, 10 Carmel placements were made.

Music On The Peninsula

by Mary Lindsay-Oliver

The local Composers' Group brought together by the Chamber Music Society, Gilbert Boyer, director, met on Sunday at the studio home of Mr. and Mrs. Podbereski in Pacific Grove to show scores and discuss music values. It was the first I had been able to attend and found David Alberto, Philippe Buhler, Belknapp Hascal Stewart, Bonak Koo, and Robert Brown from Watsonville, all of whom brought compositions.

Podbereski, Alberto, Belknapp Hascal Stewart and Lindsay-Oliver played some of their compositions on the piano, and others ran off tape recordings or examined scores. It was an interesting get-together making for a closer acquaintance among the musicians. The more they know of each other, the more co-operative they can be and the more interesting for the visiting conductors, artists and critics who come to us and are due at Asilomar again this summer.

We cannot produce what the population of large cities can, but at least we have such a high percentage of those engaged in the arts that the Peninsula is fast becoming a center to be reckoned with. When active in the Tri-cities of Davenport, Moline and Rock Island I personally got the local composers together for several concerts of their work. We did not allow a committee to judge what was to be played, but gave each a chance to present what he desired for acceptance, or not, by the public. This, I believe is the sounder process, for the composer can benefit from public response. The secret of real composition is the truth of the inner hearing and inspiration, not the mere copy of idioms and experimentations, which have come forth originally because they meant something in that musician's concept, and what one hears is not necessarily what another hears. Mrs. Alberto and Mrs. Boyer were also in the assembly that received the Podbereskis' hospitality.

NEED PRINTING?

Carmel High School senior Jennie Hill, on Saturday, was named central region girl winner of the California Scholarship Federation Seymour Memorial Award of $300. The announcement was made at the close of an all-day CSF spring convention in Clovis.

The Seymour award is given to two truly outstanding CSF life members, a boy and a girl, in each of four California regions. They are selected on the basis of intellectual ability, all round leadership and service accomplishments, regardless of financial need or other awards won.

The $300 may be used for cultural pursuits. It is not a scholarship. Chapter advisers nominate candidates. A school is not expected to have a candidate every year. Jennie is the first Seymour Award winner from Carmel High School. She was nominated by the school's CSF chapter adviser, Mrs. Ellen Jane Down.

Mrs. Down sent in Jennie's application in January. Jennie was next asked to write a letter telling about herself and her interests. She was chosen a semi-finalist by the Seymour Award selection committee then asked to come to Clovis on Saturday for an hour and a half's personal committee interview. At the closing session of the CSF Clovis convention Jennie was announced winner of the award. She rushed out to tell her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hill, who had driven her to the convention.

Jennie is a seal bearer (life member) of the California Scholarship Federation, high school scholastic honor society. She spent last summer in Norway after being chosen as Carmel High School's American Service exchange student. AFS exchange students are chosen by a national committee in New York to represent American youth in foreign countries.

KING CITY AND JUNIPERO TRACK SQUADS AT CARMEL FRIDAY AFTERNOON

Carmel track filberts will have an opportunity to see one of the best high school track squads in Northern California in action at Bardarson Field tomorrow afternoon when the King City Mustangs visit the Padre campus for a triangular meet with Carmel and Junipero Memorial. King City recently took a close third in a home meet with 32 of the outstanding high schools from Santa Maria to Pittsburg. Coach Rowland Dickey has banded together an exceptionally well-balanced team this season and appears to have the top hand in the Coast Counties Athletic League with outstanding performers in all events except the short dashes. Coach Bob Walthour's Junipero Memorial gang hung a close decision on the Gilroy thinclads last week and will pick up a bundle of points in the sprint events. The Cardinals have speed to burn in the short distances and will hit King City and Carmel where they are the weakest.

Carmel's track squad has been overmatched in all of its meets so far this season and there isn't much respite in sight when it tackles the powerful Mustangs tomorrow afternoon. Coach Hadley Hicks has a squad with good depth in the distance events and a fair hurdling crew but the overall strength isn't available to cope with the likes of North Salinas, Monterey, and the other big schools. Joe Foster and Danny Moore could run 1-2 in the 880 in tomorrow's meet and Carmel's mile duo of Buddy Steffen and Gerhard Kalmus could salvage 2nd and 3rd behind King City's brilliant Avila.

The Padre track squads journeyed to King City for the KC Relays last Saturday and found the competition pretty tough to crack. Only Red and Gray performer to hit the score column was Alan Dahlstrand who came through with a fifth place in the 120 high hurdles. Pittsburg High won the meet with 22½ points, Madera had 22 points for second place, and host King City placed third with 21½ points.

O'SHEA NO-HITTER BEATS SAN LORENZO

Courageous little Phil O'Shea pitched his last baseball game for Carmel High Tuesday afternoon and made it the best game of his four-year career in the Padre flannels. Mixing his quick-breaking curve with a sneaky fast ball, O'Shea tossed a nifty no-hitter at the San Lorenzo Cougars to give the Padres an important 3-2 league victory. While fashioning his no-hitter, the diminutive senior right hander struck out three and issued four free trips to first. Plagued by a tricky knee for the past two years, O'Shea is booked for an operation today and will forego any more baseball until he enrolls at the Monterey Junior College next spring.

Tuesday's league fracas was touch-and-go all the way with the Padres taking a 1-0 lead in the third heat when Ron Faia blasted a long double to drive in O'Shea with the go-ahead run. The visiting Cougars came back in the fifth inning to push across two runs on a pair of walks and an overthrow of first base. Carmel locked it up at 2-2 in the last of the 7th when freshman David Harber tripled down the right field line and scored on Rance Kastor's grounder to the Cougar shortstop. Carmel got the winning run in the bottom of the eighth when Frank Mayo beat out an infield hit and was pushed across the plate on two perfect bunts executed by Mike Cole and David Hansen.

Top fielding plays of the game were turned in by Carmel's keystone combination of Ron Faia and David Fuller and centerfielder Dave Hansen. Faia and Fuller turned over a crucial double play when the Cougars threatened in the fourth heat while Hansen speared a sure triple in a leaping catch near the deep center field fence.

CIRCLING THE BASES

From the looks of Manager Paul Artellan's roster of Carmel Merchant softball players, the Village pastimers are headed for their most successful season. The enthusiastic Merchant skipper and Coach Don Sands have lined up a powerful aggregation replete with classy pitching, a pair of nifty catchers, and plate power enough to make rival pitchers shudder. Taking part in last week's initial workout were Mike Ricketts, Jim Fisher, Bill Conlan, Paul Ricketson, Gene Znani, Howard Sims, Walt Frey, Gene Vandervort, Harold Rogers, Fritz Lembach, Frank Silva, Marty Hansen, Mike Artellan, Neno Aiello, Jack McGaughey, John Souza, Phil Ramirez, and Bob Updike.

Former Sunset School athlete Grimm Mason, who is now a junior at Oregon State College, has again been plagued by the injury jinx and will have to sit out the rest of the baseball season. One of the most promising football and baseball players at the Corvallis campus, the talented ex-Carmelite picked up a football knee and had an operation last fall and appeared to be in excellent shape for baseball this spring. However, his other knee collapsed in early-season baseball workouts and he is slated for another session with the knee surgeon. Mason has used up his football eligibility but he has another season of baseball with the Beavers.

The Monterey High School Easter Vacation Baseball Tournament is slated to get underway next Monday morning at the El Estero and Monterey Peninsula College diamonds with 9:30 starting times at both playing sites. Carmel takes on host Monterey in the opening game at El Estero while Pacific Grove and Santa Cruz cross bats in the opener at MPC. Gonzales and Watsonville meet in the 1:00 o'clock game at El Estero with North Salinas and Salinas clashing at MPC. Tournament finals will be held on Tuesday with the consolation winner being decided at 12:30 and the tournament championship at 3:30. Final games will be held at the El Estero diamond.

Chitwoods' 32nd Anniversary

Mayor and Mrs. John Chitwood were married 32 years ago on Tuesday. "It was a beautiful Carmel spring day, just like today," Mrs. Chitwood remembers. The ceremony took place in the house in which they now live, then the home of Mrs. Chitwood's mother and father, Mrs. Peter Taylor and the late Mr. Taylor.

"I've re-enlisted, and John has shipped me over for another cruise," reported Mrs. Chitwood on Tuesday, then announced that her first duty on the cruise was to attend Tuesday evening's candidates meeting at Sunset Auditorium with Mayor Chitwood, a Navy ensign at the time of their marriage, now a retired commander.

It was the week before election 32 years ago, too. Carmel had 615 registered voters and they were urged in the Pine Cone to go to the polls "with but one idea in mind, to name councilmen who have the intelligence, the loyalty to Carmel, and the courage necessary to carry through a program that will hold Carmel forever as the most distinctive and unique village in the United States."

Townspeople were troubled then as now. A civic planner, engaged by the council, had proposed widened and paved streets. Business interests were in conflict with residential desires. Perry Newberry had taken the street paving issue to court. He disliked the "checkerboard design" emerging where formerly there had only been "cowpaths."

New Registration Center

Mrs. Mark Thomas, president of the Carmel Republican Women's Club, announces that a new voters' registration location is now open in the Irving Lundborg Company office on Dolores Street above Sixth Avenue. Club members will be there to register voters each week day from 10:00 - 4:00 o'clock, Saturday 10:00 - 1:00 o'clock, through April 14, last day to register to vote in the primaries on June 7.

Annual Death Valley Trek

The annual Lofton-Williams spring camping expedition to Death Valley leaves Carmel tomorrow. Members of the group this year are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lofton and Dr. Russell Williams. Mr. Lofton has added painting materials to the camping equipment and will again record his impressions of the desert on canvas.

In Puerto Rico Airlift

Army First Lieutenant Alexander R. Macdonald, son of Major General John C. Macdonald (USA-ret.) and Mrs. Macdonald of Pebble Beach, took part in the largest peacetime airlift ever attempted. Exercise Puerto Pine.

Strategic Army Corps troops were transported for 18 days from their home stations throughout the United States to a staging area, Puerto Pine, in Puerto Rico, returning last Thursday.

Lieutenant Macdonald's base is Fort Campbell, Kentucky, where he is operations officer of Troop B of the 101st Airborne Division's 17th Cavalry. He is a 1955 graduate of the U.S. Military Academy, West Point.

Jessica Barton One Year Old

Bob and Erica Barton brought their daughter, Jessica, to Carmel two week ends ago so that she could have her first birthday party in the home of her grandmother, Mrs. George Dunbaugh.

March 28 was Jessica's birthday but her father's teaching duties at San Jose City College prevented her from being here on that day. Instead Mrs. Dunbaugh had a tea party for her the day before with a pink-rose-decorated cake and one candle for Jessica to blow out. Invited to Jessica's first birthday party were her other grandmother, Mrs. Berthe Simpson, Mrs. Fred Farr and Nancy Farr, Mrs. Nancy Todd and Jane Todd, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lofton and Melissa Lofton and Flavia Flavin.

David McIlwraith First Child

Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas McIlwraith have named their first child David Alan. He was born at the Peninsula Community Hospital on March 27 with a birth weight of seven pounds, five ounces.

David's parents moved to Carmel from San Francisco a year and a half ago. His father is an electronics expert with the Human Research project at the Presidio.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Gluck of Mill Valley and Mrs. Marie McIlwraith of San Francisco are David Alan's grandparents. Both his grandmothers came to Carmel to see him for the first time last week.

No Booklovers Meeting

The Book and Art Society, formerly the Booklovers Club, will not meet on April 11 because of construction work on the new hall at Town House, according to Nelo Drizari, president.

The next regular meeting of the group will be on May 9 in the completed hall at Carmel Foundation Town House.

The name of the club has been changed to Book and Art Society as members realize their interests expand beyond book discussion.

Felicia
Stretching forth her arms to life, turning,
a shy, retiring grace unto a world that is strange and clamoring
before her face;
withdrawn in silence,
imagining, creating beauty, vivid as a flame, within,
a secret, brilliant world that changes shape and form, and hue, upon the moment, to fill the searching heart.

Walk the meadow;
feel the new grass
cool to your feet,
a carpet, alive,
deep, reaching down through the mould of past years, to water. Delicate crystal chains of green seek the taste of sun and air, their breath a surge of humid fallow
strong with spring.

Laughter is a blue sky,
a spring, bubbling forth from deep cool reservoirs within; a bursting pelting shower from a puff cloud. Laughter is the ring of steel on steel;
a roar of thunder,
rattling window sills and stars, a gusting summer wind. This expression sings, this glow that mirth and joy, exuberant, declare.

Baroque Music, Lecture, Dance At Nepenthe

Two Bach cantatas were presented on Sunday at Nepenthe, Big Sur, by the San Francisco Chamber Players, consisting of Raymond Duste, oboe, Mary James, viola, Helen Stross, cello, Sabina Skalar and Ruggiero Pelosi, violin, Margaret Fabrizio, harp. Edgar Jones was the soloist. The same group will give another baroque music concert at Nepenthe on May 15.

A contemporary dance program by the San Francisco Choreographers Showcase will take place at Nepenthe on April 15. On April 22 Milton Mayer will discuss Life Behind the Iron Curtain at Nepenthe, according to William Fassett, owner of the Big Sur restaurant. All programs are at 9:00 o'clock in the evening. Fassett adds that a new terrace with an outdoor chessboard has been constructed by the fireplace during the winter months.

Carmel Realtors Offer Free Home Appraisal Service

Members of the Carmel Board of Realtors, both men and women, are combining to offer greater service to local home owners. A caravan of professional real estate persons will visit homes, on request, and make individual appraisals of property. The average appraisal of the several estimates will be offered to the owner for consideration.

Men members of the Carmel Board of Realtors meet once a month for a golf get-together and to discuss real estate problems. Women members hold separate conferences, at different times to the golf meetings, and also strive to solve mutual real estate problems.

The plan to help the home owner establish a realistic appraisal of property by means of the caravan visit is the result of discussion by both groups.

Lena Puckett

Mrs. Lena May Puckett died on Friday in a local nursing home after a period of ill health. She moved to Carmel from Los Angeles two and a half years ago. Her home was on Portola Way.

Mrs. Puckett was born in Wichita, Kansas, on May 14, 1886. Her husband was the late Edwin Ralph Puckett.

Survivors living in Carmel are her daughter, Mrs. Herbert M. Myers, and a grandson, Herbert W. Myers. She also leaves several nieces and nephews.

Dr. K. Fillmore Gray, pastor of the Church of the Wayfarer, officiated at memorial services for Mrs. Puckett in the Little Chapel of the Church of the Wayfarer on Saturday afternoon. On Monday concluding services were held in the Rose Hill Memorial Chapel of Whittier with the Reverend Clarence Wagner officiating. Burial was in the Rose Hill Cemetery, Whittier.

Friends wishing to honor the memory of Mrs. Puckett may do so in the form of donations to the Organ Memorial Fund, Church of the Wayfarer, Box 2205, Carmel.

Willow Creek Apts. At Stanford To Be Ready Before June

Before June, the Willow Creek Apartments, in the heart of the Stanford Campus, will be ready for occupancy. According to Howard J. White, President of The Willow Creek Corporation, plans are being made for a social-charity opening, details of which will be announced later. Just 45 minutes from San Francisco, these luxury apartments are already being rented by couples who want a country atmosphere, without the responsibilities of a big home.

The three buildings which comprise the first unit contain 54 apartments and occupy a site of almost five acres. Only 75% of this area is covered by buildings, which allows for landscaped garden space. Here will be a swimming pool, a private putting green, as well as a pavilion by the creek for the tenants who want to entertain large numbers of guests.

Soon after the completion of the first unit, the next will be started, so that eventually there will be over 100. The emphasis is on outdoor living; all first floor apartments open on private patios; all upper apartments have decks that look into the trees. There are 32 feet long living-dining room areas, wood panelled. Master bed rooms have their own dressing rooms, each bed room has its own bath. There are some wood burning fireplaces. The kitchens are all-electric.

Guest parking is ample and each apartment has space for two cars. The garage is provided with elevators.

John Carl Warnecke and Associates are the architects, while Howard J. White is the builder. The landscaping is under the direction of landscape architect, Lawrence Halprin.

Anyone wishing a brochure, or who is interested in seeing plans or the building, should write the Willow Creek Corporation, 800 Welch Road, Palo Alto, telephone DAvenport 1-4545.

Carmel Youth Center Sunset Serenade

Carmel Youth Center members will present a program of popular music, Sunset Serenade, on the evenings of April 20-21 at 8:00 o'clock in Sunset School Auditorium.

The four bands participating will be those of Herb Miller which plays popular music in the tradition of Glenn Miller, Herb Miller's brother; the Monterey Peninsula College Festival Band of 17 musicians who play progressive music; the Monterey Peninsula College Dixieland band of seven players; and G. Sharp and his 18 Naturals, a group of high-school-age jazz musicians.

Sunset Serenade will replace the annual Youth Follies. Funds raised by the musical event will maintain the center during the next few months when the center will be almost without funds because of reduction in the expected Community Chest allocation.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

How God's goodness and allness establishes the basis for universal harmony will be brought out Sunday at Christian Science services.

The Lesson-Sermon on the subject "Are Sin, Disease, and Death Real?" will include this verse from the Bible: "Know therefore this day, and consider it in thine heart, that the Lord he is God in heaven above, and upon the earth beneath: there is none else" (Deut. 4:39).

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy the following will be read (414:21-23): "The Scripture declares, 'The Lord He is God (good); there is none else beside Him.' Even so, harmony is universal, and discord is unreal."

The Golden Text is from Psalms (103:2-4): "Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits: who forgiveth all thine iniquities; who healeth all thy diseases; who redeemeth they life from destruction."

Give Mrs. Fletcher New Flag

The Carmel Republican Women's Club presented Mrs. Ansel Fletcher with a new flag on March 29, her ninety-seventh birthday. Mrs. John Chitwood, flag chairman, and Mrs. Mark Thomas, president, made the presentation and watched Mrs. Fletcher hang the new flag in her window.

She remembers her father riding horseback over the hills of southern Iowa to exercise his privilege to vote. Since women have had the vote in the United States, Mrs. Fletcher has cast her ballot for each Republican presidential candidate. On June 7 she will telephone friends to remind them it is election day as she has done for many years.

The Carmel Republican Women's Club has also presented three flags to the Monterey Peninsula Girl Scouts to replace those flags lost in a fire at headquarters.

Special Services During Holy Week In Carmel Churches

Palm Sunday services with special music begin the observance of Holy Week in Carmel churches.

The Chapel Singers of the Church of the Wayfarer will give a special vesper service at 5:00 o'clock on Palm Sunday afternoon. Under the direction of John Farr, with Connell Carruth, organist, they will sing Mass Op. 36 by the French organist and composer, Charles Widor.

Composed for two choirs and two organs, the mass was originally sung with one choir taking the form of a solo group of male voices supported by a larger choir of mixed voices, altogether totalling over 200 voices. It was first presented at L'Eglise St. Sulpice in Paris, where Widor was organist for over 60 years. A small organ was used as an accompaniment organ for the choral groups as they were quite removed from the great church organ.

On Sunday at the Wayfarer, the solo choir will consist of John Craige and Herbert L. Myers. Dr. Craige has sung with various local choral groups including the Bach Festival chorus. Herbert Myers, professor in the engineering department at the Navy Postgraduate School, has also sung with local choral groups and is an original member of the Chapel Singers at the Church of the Wayfarer.

The Widor mass was obtained from the music library of the late husband of the Church of the Wayfarer organist, Connell Carruth. Mr. Carruth collected the music while studying with Widor at St. Sulpice.

A special invitation to the vesper service on Sunday at the Church of the Wayfarer is being extended to California Music Educators who will be in convention at the Fairgrounds Sunday night through Wednesday noon.

Members of the choir for the Widor mass are: sopranos, Dorothy Gray, Ruth Kightly, Corliss Myers, Mildred Roberts, Arlene Torri, Zeala Wright; altos, Helen Husby, Marjory Marsh, Marion Marsh, Linda Roberts, Jan Westcott, Karen Bruckner; tenors, John Craige, Frank Faulkner, Robert Lee, Herbert L. Myers, Don Roberts, Warren Roberts; basses, Heinrich Bender, Bert Blanks, Herbert Blanks, Victor Davis, Herbert W. Myers, Jim Pruitt, Jim Saunders, Melvin Taylor.

At the 9:30 and 11:00 o'clock identical services on Palm Sunday morning at the Church of the Wayfarer, the Chapel Singers, directed by Mr. Farr will sing Cesar Franck's Psalm 150. Mrs. Carruth's organ selections will include Blessed Is He that Cometh from St. Cecelia's Mass by Gounod, George's Ride On In Majesty, and the Finale by Wolstenholme. A group of new youth members of the church will be received in a ceremony under the direction of the minister of education, Victor H. Davis. The services will be conducted by Dr. K. Fillmore Gray, whose sermon theme will be: It Goes Right On!

On Maundy Thursday evening at 8:00 o'clock Charles Rann Kennedy's drama The Terrible Meek will be presented in the chapel by a cast from the Golden Bough Circle Theatre, which will include Babs Richardson, Barton Heyman, Lee Williams, and Mike Walsh, technical assistant.

The Good Friday Service will be from 2:00 until 3:00 o'clock and there will be three identical Easter Services at 9:30, 11:00 and 12:30 o'clock.

The reading of the Passion Of Our Lord According to St. Matthew will begin the liturgical observance of Holy Week at All Saints Church Sunday morning. With two celebrations of The Holy Communion at 8:00 and 9:15 and an 11:00 o'clock service of Ante-Communion, clergy, choir and members of the congregation will read the first of the Gospel accounts of the last days in the earthly life of Jesus Christ. Going back to ancient custom of congregational participation in the Passion narrative, the recitation or singing of the account led composers and artists through the ages to create settings for these dramatic events. Bach's setting of St. Matthew's account is a continual feature of Carmel's annual Bach Festival, and will be heard at the close of this summer's festival.

At the 11:00 o'clock Palm Sunday service the drama by Charles Kennedy The Terrible Meek will be presented in the chancel of All Saints', under the direction of Nick Zanides. Palm crosses will be blessed and distributed at all services. Taking part in the services on Palm Sunday wil be the rector of the parish, the Reverend David Hill, the director of Youth Activities, the Reverend Peter Farmer, layreaders James Neill and Ilbert Somerville, and the choirs of the parish under the direction of Robert Forbes and Mr. and Mrs. Donnelly Fenn.

Each day during Holy Week The Holy Communion will be celebrated at 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon, and the Passion narrative from successive Gospels will be read according to a liturgical pattern. Clergy will be available in the Church each afternoon from 4:30 o'clock.

On Sunday olive branches instead of palm branches will be blessed at the 7:00 o'clock Mass at Carmel Mission Basilica.

The branches are cut from the olive trees in the Mission quadrangle. These trees, over 100 years old, are believed to have been planted by either Father Crespi or Father Lasuen.

Other Masses on Palm Sunday at the Basilica will be celebrated at 8:00, 9:00, 10:00, 11:00 and 12:15 o'clock. The blessed branches will be placed in the Basilica vestibule for parishioners and visitors.

There will be a Good Friday Service at the Carmel Presbyterian Church from 2:00 - 3:00 o'clock in the afternoon. This service of music and meditation is made available for those who wish to remember the crucifixion of our Lord. The church will be open before and after the service for those who desire to come for quiet meditation.

Dr. Joseph M. Ewing, the Pastor, announces the following special music for the Good Friday service: solos by Miss Karen Steinke, Take My Mother Home, and Were You There?, Negro spirituals. The organist, Fred Lewis, will play O World, I Must Leave Thee, O Lamb of God, Most Stainless, chorales by Streicher, Lamb of God, our Saviour, Bach, and When on the Cross the Saviour Hung, Bach.

At The Carmel Presbyterian Church on Palm Sunday the minister, Dr. Joseph M. Ewing, will preach the following sermon The Semantics of Palm Sunday at identical services at 9:30 and 11:00 o'clock.

The organist, Fred Lewis, will play as the prelude, Voix Celeste, Batiste, for the offertory, Larghetto in C, Fink, and for the postlude, Festival Postlude, Fink.

Miss Carolyn Solmonson will sing The Palms, Faure, for her solo, and the choir, under the direction of Mrs. Joseph Sherry, will use the following two anthems: Ride On, Ride On, In Majesty, Ross, and Hosanna to The Son of David, Praetorius, arranged by McIlwraith.

There will be nursery for care of infants and small children at both services.

Mylar-Wermuth Wedding

Mrs. Myra Mylar, third grade teacher at Woods School, and Lieutenant Earll Wermuth of the Carmel police force will be married on Saturday in the Carmel Presbyterian Church by Dr. Joseph M. Ewing.

Following their marriage they will leave on a trip returning in time for the reopening of school after Easter vacation.

Two Injured Tuesday In Valley Highway Automobile Accident

Following an accident on the Carmel Valley Road at 5:20 o'clock yesterday morning, Ruth Roma, 44, Palo Alto, and Albert McComiskey, 47, Menlo Park, were taken to the Peninsula Community Hospital by ambulance suffering from minor injuries.

McComiskey was driving east on Carmel Valley Road. At the intersection with Scarlett Road he tried to avoid another vehicle and went over a bank, according to the California Highway Patrol report.

Alleged Check Forger Appears Wednesday In Superior Court

Mary Beth Berry, apprehended in San Francisco on a Carmel police warrant charging forgery, was arraigned on Monday in Monterey Municipal Court. She was bound over to Monterey County Superior Court in Salinas as the charge, a felony, was beyond the jurisdiction of the municipal court. Bail was set at $2,100. She was represented by an attorney, Harold Romig.

This morning she was still in custody of the Sheriff's office in Salinas. Date of her appearance in Superior Court has been set for April 13.

Mary Beth Berry allegedly passed checks in Carmel shops using the name of Mrs. C. A. Cuva of Monterey. The checks, amounting to $700, were returned to Carmel merchants marked forged by the Bank of America, Monterey branch.

was essential to fill them right now.

The council put Martin to the vote, Chitwood, Buffington, May—yes. Norberg and Knight—no.

The debate on Mrs. von Meier was briefer. Norberg said she is not "palatible" to him. "I think Carmel should come first, last and all the time. Some think the peninsula should be merged. She and I have been on the opposite side of the fence for years."

Tom May: "I think she thinks first, last and all the time of Carmel."

Chitwood, Buffington, May—yes; Norberg, Knight—no.

2 New Zones Protested At Planners' Hearing On Proposed Ordinance

A foreign-to-Carmel, determinedly courteous atmosphere characterized the public hearing on the central district plan and the proposed new zoning ordinance Monday night. There were none of the family-fight sputterings that obtain on similar occasions between protesting citizens and city council, which can lead to understanding and compromise. This was the chill politeness of persons who have agreed to a "civilized" divorce.

The planning commission closed the door to any possibility of reconciliation when they decided that they would not continue the hearing on the proposed new zoning ordinance to April 13, when a second hearing on the central district plan is set for 4:00 o'clock. See story to the right.

Any relief from the many inequities in the proposed ordinance the property owners will have to seek from the new city council, which will also hold hearings on the plan and ordinance, and will have final say on what modifications must be made to make it acceptable to the citizens.

Monday night's hearing covered both plan and ordinance, in that order. Aside from Admiral C. W. Fisher's suggestions for some changes in wording in the description of the plan, the protests consisted largely of objections to the proposed traffic flow. Francis Whitaker said the one-way traffic scheme was transferring congestion from one part of town to another. "I am not prepared to make one more concession to the auto. We've made too many already." He said the one-way traffic could not be accomplished without "traffic lights staring us in the face."

Commissioner Herbert Blanks said there was no intention of using traffic lights.

Commissioner George Willox asked Whitaker on what he based his conclusions, on what statistics, what studies?

Whitaker said he'd noticed how one-way streets worked in other cities and in Monterey. He didn't think highly of them from a pedestrian point of view. "I know, I've tried to cross them. The cars may go through faster but at the cost of traffic lights, and no parking on one side of the street."

Patricia Hall favored one-way traffic. She asked for more of it. The block in front of the post office should be "one way east," she said.

Adolph LaFrenz said a bigger problem in congestion would result in directing traffic into narrower streets than to allow it to remain on Ocean Avenue, which the planning commission intends to close to through traffic. "Ocean avenue is one of the few streets wide enough for two lanes (on each side of the planters). We had two lanes until the cars got so long and stick out too far with diagonal parking." He suggested parallel parking on Ocean Avenue.

Commissioner Herbert Blanks answered: "It's incompatible to try to carry major traffic on a major street," and Commissioner Smith revealed for whose use the planning commission is dedicating Ocean Avenue: "The through one-way streets will be for the residents. We thought to leave Ocean Avenue for the Meandering Tourist."

Mrs. Warren E. Crabtree offered another objection to the plan. If Mountain View is blocked at its Ocean Avenue entrance by a park, as proposed, upper Eighth street will become heavily travelled, she pointed out. "Then they'll cut down the trees and widen it."

No objection was raised to the proposed Ocean Avenue Mall, but since it would block through traffic on Ocean, Whitaker's and La Frenz' objection to removing through traffic from Ocean could not be construed as a recommendation.

* * *

In the hearing on the proposed new zoning ordinance which provides for carving four zones out of the present two, the highly protected Ocean Avenue Core (C-1) escaped protest, the C-2 service light industry, whose boundaries and uses remain the same as in the present ordinance, received endorsement from Tom Perry, attorney for the C-2 property owners' association.

The down-graded remainder of C-1 that lies like an over-sized horse-collar around the "Ocean Avenue Core" and is designated C-1-S (Service Zone) produced a protest from Sidney Dibble. As a property owner in a zone that is now "Class 1," he said, he didn't want his property down-graded by introducing class 2 uses. "I don't want to make a big issue of it now; I just want to make a point," and added that he would have more to say about it later.

Three attorneys representing the three property owners of the zone C-1-L, specially created for Pine Inn, Lobos Lodge and Normandy Inn, protested the freezing of the hotels to that use alone and the placing of the shops in and around them on use permits.

The clause that the hotels could be rebuilt to present size and use in case of their destruction roused Robert Little to ask that his hotel on San Carlos and Fifth, located in the proposed C-1-S zone be given a C-1-L zoning, so if it is burned down he can rebuild to the same size and number of units. His is non-conforming under both old and new ordinances, because of lack of parking.

Mrs. Kenneth Roberts, whose property is in the residence zone near the Pine Inn C-1-L, suggested that her and the neighbors' property be put in C-1-S, so they could build apartment houses for elderly retired people.

The off-street parking provisions of the proposed ordinance brought a warning from Mae McGrury. The small businesses, the little shops, could neither provide parking on their small lots nor afford to pay for in lieu parking. "You'll drive them out and open the town to big business."

Councilmen Approve Utility Requests On Tree Tour Tuesday

The city council, on its tree tour meeting Tuesday afternoon approved seven related P.G. and E. items including four tree trimmings, with minor changes. The changes were relocation of some anchor poles and changes in the type of guy cables the P.G. and E. planned to use to support poles.

The council approved Milton Williams' request to landscape the parkway on Lincoln Street in front of La Rambla Building with two dwarf pines, one Monterey pine, rocks and sand.

Councilmen allowed Anne Bosworth to keep a retaining wall on San Antonio Street which infringes on undeveloped city sidewalk. They took notice of Norman Winslow's two requests. The first, to remove a utility cable attached to a pine, was already being taken care of by the utility company. The second, to remove a dead branch from a city pine, was also taken care of. Street Superintendent William Askew Jr. had already asked a tree surgeon to remove the dead branch.

No Second Hearing On New Zoning Ord. Planners Decide

There will be no second public hearing before the Carmel Planning Commission on the proposed new zoning ordinance. At the end of Monday night's hearing, the commissioners decided that they'd heard all they wanted to on the ordinance. They are required by law to have two hearings on the central district zoning plan, and that requirement will be satisfied with a hearing set for April 13, 4:00 o'clock. Comments on the proposed new ordinance will not be accepted, Chairman Herbert Blanks stated specifically.

On April 13 the public may discuss or protest only the features displayed on the zoning map: traffic flow, Ocean Avenue Mall, closure of the Ocean Avenue entrance to Mountain View Avenue, civic center on Junipero Street, creation of four zones out of two existing zones, where certain "uses" (businesses, professions, industries, "services") are allowable and others prohibited. The public may not discuss or protest the "uses" in these zones since these "uses," many of them involving radical changes from the existing zoning ordinance, are in the proposed zoning ordinance, which the planning commission has heard enough about from the property owners.
